Firm Expands its Technology Stack for Complex Investigations and E-Discovery Matters with Industry-Leading Analytics Platform

WASHINGTON, Dec. 09, 2019 (GLOBE NEWSWIRE) -- FTI Consulting, Inc. (NYSE: FCN) today announced that its Technology segment has launched a new set of managed e-discovery services using Brainspace, a leading data analytics platform for investigations, e-discovery, intelligence mining and compliance. In partnership with Brainspace, FTI Technology has integrated its platform as part of the firm's e-discovery managed services solution to help clients strengthen early case assessments and handle the growing volume and complexity of legal review and investigations.

"Advanced analytics have become a critical component of the toolset needed to efficiently and defensibly fulfill e-discovery obligations for matters of all sizes," said Daryl Teshima, a Senior Managing Director within FTI Technology. "Because every matter is different, we take a client-centric approach to technology, ensuring our team can offer each client the perfect combination of best of breed tools, customized workflows and expert guidance. Brainspace has been on the leading edge of data analytics and AI for more than a decade. Its addition to our technology stack will bolster our offerings to help legal teams make faster, smarter and more accurate decisions about their data."

As part of its e-discovery managed services offering, FTI Technology provides clients with a selection of industry-leading analytics and e-discovery applications, including Brainspace, for early case assessments, investigations, document review and other use cases. FTI Technology's expert team of professionals can reduce the cost of discovery and accelerate case strategy development by leveraging key capabilities within Brainspace, including:

- Concept search
- Phrase detection
- Communication analysis
- Thread analysis
- Duplicate detection and email threading
- Predictive coding
- Continuous multimodal learning
- Multi-language support
- Third-party integration

"FTI Technology has a long-standing reputation as one of the most trusted e-discovery solution providers in the world," said Dean Kuhlman, Vice President of Sales at Brainspace. "Counsel often struggle to effectively deploy advanced analytics or standardize workflows around their e-discovery tools. The combination of our powerful platform with FTI Technology's deep expertise and global reach will make it easier for legal teams to surface key concepts quickly and navigate their e-discovery challenges at scale."
