"His track record and approach to innovation will further boost our capabilities and ensure we continue to have the best advice for our clients as the situation evolves."

FTI Consulting's Public Affairs practice within the Strategic Communications segment is the firm's centre of excellence for policy communications, public affairs and government relations. The practice has a growing roster of clients seeking to engage with multilateral policy and politics that are being shaped by intergovernmental organisations such as the OECD, the UN and its specialised agencies like the World Health Organisation, the G20, the World Trade Organisation and the World Bank, amongst others.

Commenting on his appointment, Mr. Karami Ruiz said, "Governments and stakeholders turn to international organizations to address global issues and shape regulation across borders. Policy initiatives at multilateral levels impact business models and their bottom lines across all sectors. I am delighted to join FTI Consulting to establish a multilateral engagement offering that companies can leverage to safeguard and grow their reputation with international stakeholders.
